Village police contract talks prompt debate

By Valerie Evenden

Staff writer

PONTOON BEACH — Trustees believe they are improving the wording in a labor contract to benefit their employees, but a representative of Teamsters Local 625 thinks differently.

Dale Stewart, a Local 625 business agent, said he is not sure because he is not on and wants to know the status of an agreement negotiated between the village and union on behalf of police personnel.

"Some months ago you gave voluntary recognition to the union to represent members of the police department.

"There was an agreement reached by negotiation, but it has not been accepted by our people but it has not yet been accepted by the council (board)," Stewart said during an Aug. 30 special meeting.

Negotiating sessions between union representatives and a committee of village officials were completed some time ago and the trustees are approving terms as stated in the agreement, Stewart said.

"This is the first (union) contract for the village and it's a different situation than a year-to-year contract," Mayor Guy Wilson said.

"There were some changes made and it is now in the hands of our attorney," Wilson said.

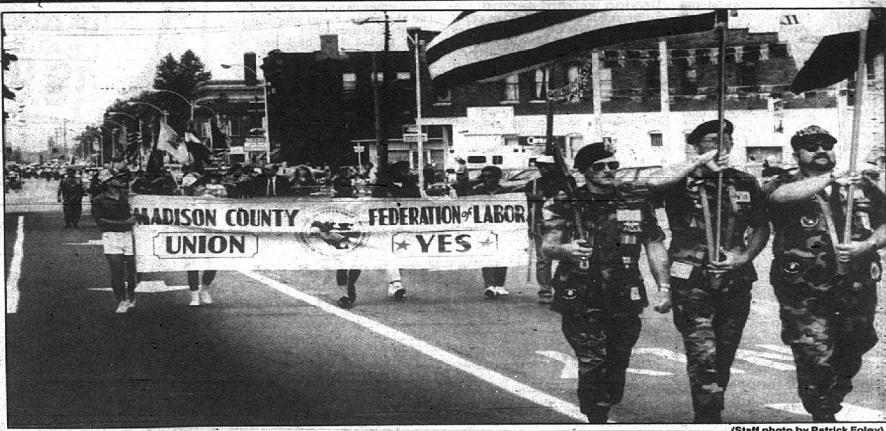

"That's what we were given to understand," Stewart said. "We want to know if what was negotiated has been accepted or rejected. If it's been voted down, fine. You can accept it or reject," the union officer said.

"If you are saying a word morning. The weather was more cooperative as floats, marching union locals and bands highlighted the event.

Driver unhappy with truck routes

By Mike Myers

GRANITE CITY — When it comes to its controversial truck route, the City Council "sounds like a bunch of little kids fighting," according to a Granite City truck driver.

Donald Grimes, a driver for Granite City Steel for Tri-City Trucking, a division of R.M. Bowler Contract Hauling.

He also drove 7th Ward Alderman Edward Darrow chairman of the Traffic Committee around the city route for the local truck routes. Grimes attended the last City Council meeting and was on the agenda to speak at last night's (Sept. 5) meeting when a new truck route plan was expected to be introduced.

The present truck route is under fire because most of the aldermen said it is too complicated to follow and not marked well enough to be followed.

Grimes said he agrees the present truck route is a disaster, but he isn't happy with the alternatives being discussed, either.

Grimes said some aldermen are only concerned with keeping trucks out of their neighborhoods and not what is the best and easiest way to haul steel. He said there are 50 local trucks, and a lot more out-

town trucks, hauling steel through the city

every day.

The ban on trucks using Missouri Avenue is at the top of Grimes' hate list.

"One alderman (Dan Partney) doesn't want trucks in his ward, going down that road," Grimes said.

"It's just stupid. We haul a lot of things to Precoat Metals and Heidmann Steel (in Northgate Industrial Park on Illinois 3) and Rock Road.

Grimes said he doesn't buy the argument that Missouri Avenue isn't wide enough for trucks and said he has been out measuring it to prove it is just as wide as other streets

Grimes said he has lived in Granite City 31 years and trucks have always gone down 20th Street to Madison Avenue. Trucks, he said, are slowing it down.

"I would do it again. I'm taking a chance of getting caught," he said.

Grimes' second biggest gripe is the turn, on the current route, from Madison Avenue onto the highway.

"Sometime an alderman has a really concern with keeping trucks out of their neighborhood and not what is the best and easiest way to haul steel. He said there are 50 local trucks, and a lot more out-

town trucks, hauling steel through the city to the attention of the producers of Inside Edition, a national news magazine show.

On Aug. 25, reporter Jeff Cole of that show came to Schroeder's school to catch the classroom dynamo in action. The segment will air Sept. 8 at 4 p.m. on KSDK Channel 5.

"They called from New York a few weeks ago and interviewed me," said Schroeder. "Then later they called and said they'd like someone out and do some filming in my classes."

Schroeder showed close rapport with the students. "I'm going to teach you how to stop thinking in ruts," he told them.

He is not afraid to ask his students to do things that many junior high schoolers might find difficult. He has them write out crayons and index cards with names of animals and "things" on them.

He has the students to take some paper and create a drawing combining the animal and the thing into one object; to give their creation a name, and to list qualities which describe its qualities.

As an example, he showed them a drawing of a "giraffe-bus" that he had drawn. "I want you to show me a new way of thinking about your object," he said.

Time ran out before the class ended, but Schroeder asked the students to turn in their own sheets of paper and he would save them for next time.

In the corner, Cole sat with a notebook scribbling short phrases. The camera, operated by Rick Green, swept the room, picking up faces as Schroeder called on students. Teacher Joann Marzola ran quickly from student to student holding a boom microphone over each head as the students answered Schroeder's questions.

The two technicians are from the St. Louis-based River Mountain Production Group. "We usually do most of Inside Edition's Midwest tapes," said Marzola.

The bell rang. Students filed out of the steamy classroom, their heads filled with new ideas but no "ruts."

Teacher inspires national TV coverage

GRANITE CITY — Edward Marshall Schroeder is viewed by many people here as an energetic and talented — and the whole nation is going to find out about him Sept. 8 when he appears on Inside Edition, a television program.

Drama and English teacher at Coolidge Junior High School, he has chalked up many accomplishments, and they have not gone unnoticed.

In 1988, he was named Illinois Distinguished Educator of the Year. That award, he says, is probably the one that brought

Madison schools on heat schedule

The Madison School District has announced the extension of special hours this week for students attending during the regular school term. Pupils in all grade levels will start school one hour earlier. Starting and dismissal times are: Blair and Harris schools, Grades 1 to 4 — 7:40 a.m. to 1:10 p.m.; kindergarten (morning) — 7:40 to 9:40 a.m. and kindergarten (afternoon) — 11:10 a.m. to 1 p.m.; Madison Middle School — 7:30 a.m. to 1 p.m.; Madison High School — 7:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m.

Dioxin contamination risk low

On Aug. 24, the Illinois Environmental Protection Agency announced the results of tests conducted last November in the neighborhood around the Jennison Wright plant at 900 22nd St., where traces of dioxin contamination were found. A meeting was held Thursday to inform residents near the plant. The IEPA told residents the sample concentrations taken from soil and groundwater indicate no immediate health threat to residents. "In no way is this another Times Beach," said IEPA spokesman Virginia Wood.

50 years ago

Thursday, Sept. 7, 1939

About 4,000 workers, representing both the Congress of Industrial Workers and the American Federation of Labor, formed a procession nearly two miles long that marched through the Tri-Cities for Labor Day. The parade, which included all three high school bands, took 22 minutes to pass any given point.

Tip of the hat

Parade marshal

Sen. Sam Vadalabene waves to the crowd during the annual Labor Day parade. The state legislator postponed back surgery to fulfill his role as parade marshal. He later was honored by labor leaders for his 98 percent voting record in favor of labor.

Green, black mower gone

A green and black lawn mower was stolen from beneath the rear porch at the home of Cathleen Moore in the 600 block of West 3rd Street, she reported Aug. 25.

Parked vehicle entered

James Carter Jr. of the 1500 block of Second Street reported Aug. 29 his door was pried open and a pickup truck was forced open and a black plastic box containing miscellaneous papers and $5 in coins was stolen.

Laundromat burglarized

Cleaning supplies worth $25 were taken in a burglary at the Cleanmaid Laundry on Washington Avenue, it was reported Aug. 28 by Joyce Lindsey of Granite City. A storage room door was pried open by an intruder to get access to the supplies.

Thwarts burglary attempt

Bernard C. Gorla of the 1900 block of Edwardsville Road reported hearing a noise coming from a bedroom and then seeing a young man with long hair attempting to crawl into the room through an open window.

After she confronted the intruder and asked what he was doing, the youth backed out of the window and fled from the area with a youth who had been standing outside.

Snow tires and mower taken

A burglar entered the garage of Kelly Scobrough in the 2600 block of Coopersburg Avenue and stole two snow tires valued at $100 and a lawn mower worth $100, it was discovered Aug. 30.

Enter's piece of innocent

Jeffrey Scott Vaughn, 21, of the 100 block of Coopersburg Avenue was arrested Aug. 30 on a warrant alleging unlawful possession of cannabis. He pleaded innocent the same day, posted $1,002 bail and was released.

Theft warrant served

Derek Stacy Stearns, 18, of the 100 block of Briarhaven Drive was arrested there Aug. 30 on a warrant alleging failure to appear on a charge of theft.

Madison

A window screen at the home had been pushed inward.

Parked vehicle looted

A window screen was forced open on a pickup truck belonging to Barry Roberts of the 1600 block of Second Street, he reported Aug. 25. Taken from the truck were two stereo speakers.

Driving warrant served

Christopher Scott Jackson, 26, of the 1600 block of Second Street was served a warrant alleging failure to appear on a charge of driving while his license was suspended because of a traffic stop in the 200 block of Washington Avenue at 12:13 a.m. Aug. 30.

Randolph E. Vancil, 38, of Springfield, also in the vehicle, was charged with illegal transportation of alcohol.

Booked on Venice charge

Napoleon Jacks, 21, of the 900 block of Third Street, Venice, was arrested at 1:30 a.m. Aug. 27 in the 2000 block of Fifth Street, East Madison, on a Venice warrant alleging failure to appear on an allegation of battery. He was released to a Venice officer.

Gun, beer charges filed

After stopping his car on Edwardsville Road at 20th Street at 2:45 a.m. Aug. 28, Douglas Eugene Justus, 28, of the 4000 block of Briarhaven Avenue, Forest Beach, was served a Madison warrant alleging failure to appear on a charge of illegal transportation of alcohol.

The officer alleged seeing a .38 caliber handgun and an open bottle of beer in the car and Justus was charged with illegal use of a weapon and illegal transportation of alcohol.

He posted $154 bail and was released pending a Sept. 29 appearance in the Granite City court.

Fleeing-warrant served

Charles D. Hollis, 31, of the 2600 block of Whippoorwill Lane was charged with driving while his license was revoked Aug. 26 at Illinois 208 and Illinois 113.

He was served a Granite City warrant alleging failure to appear on a charge of fleeing and attempting to elude police. He posted $254 bail and was released pending a Sept. 29 appearance in the Granite City court.

Police called to accident

Two young women were injured at 1:55 a.m. Aug. 31 when their car struck an auto — belonging to Margaret A. McNall of the 2200 block of Miramont Avenue — parked on South Street about 25 feet from 18th Street.

Julie A. Holt, 18, of the 2700 block of Madison Avenue said she made a wide turn heading north on Route 100, was heading south and her car struck the parked vehicle, which was facing south. Holt and a passenger in her car, Diane Partney, 17, of the 2700 block of Madison Avenue sustained injuries but declined immediate medical attention.

Holt went to the Granite City police station to report the mishap. She was charged with improper lane usage.

Girl, 14, hit by woman

A 14-year-old Granite City girl told police she was struck by a 20-year-old woman when leaving Coolidge Junior High School about 1:40 a.m. Aug. 30.

Prior to this, the girl said, the woman yelled that her sister had been beaten by the victim and another family member.

The assailant grabbed her, punched her on the head, kicked her in the side of the body and threw her against the school building, the girl alleged. A school official broke up the incident.

Motor home burglarized

The driver's window was pried open on a white motor home parked at the home of Dave Clark in the 1900 block of Edwardsville Road, it was reported Aug. 30. Stolen from the motor home were a 13-inch color television and a 40-channel citizen band radio. Value of the property was $375.

County moves ahead with building bonds

By John D. Milazzo
Staff writer

EDWARDSVILLE — The Madison County Board met in special session Aug. 30 to grant final approval for funding the first of two general obligation bond issues needed to finance a new $17.5 million county administration building.

The bond vote included the approval of the $9.5 million bond issue after hearing a report on the sale from a representative of Boatmen's Bank, the bonding agent for the Lance Callahan, special bond counsel, who was retained last spring for the sale.

The county earlier this year authorized the sale of up to $14 million in general obligation bonds. Callahan said the bond issue was broken into two segments to keep the amount of the issue under $10 million, making the bonds more marketable.

A contract for $11,648 for a new telephone system for the offices of the state's attorney and the public defender was awarded to Commercial Telephone Inc. of Granite City.

Bids for the system were also submitted by Twin Telecommunications of Maryville at $15,829 and Rolm/IBM of St. Louis for $24,337.

The board approved a contract of $4,400 for the Altering and Moving of Granite City for moving the state's attorney's office from the former Bank of Edwardsville building into temporary office space at the former Edifice Catholic parish in the 300 block of East Vandalia in Edwardsville.

Applications accepted for Old Newsboys funds

Helping kids is what Old Newsboys Day is all about.

In the 32 years of the campaign, a $4.1 million total has been raised by area children's charities for everything from camping tents to bicycles to VCR tapes.

The Suburban Journal is distributing applications to agencies that wish to be considered for funding from the 1989 Old Newsboys drive, scheduled for Oct. 16.

Agencies wishing to receive an application should send a self-addressed stamped envelope to Old Newsboys Fund, Attention: Suburban Journal, 1714 Deer Tracks Trail, St. Louis, Mo. 63131. The deadline for submitting an application is

Oct. 6.

In 1988, a record $270,400.71 was raised through sales of the Suburban Journal, edition of the Suburban Journal. Every penny was distributed to children's agencies in the metropolitan area.

'Fortress' members meet for first time in 45 years

Two members of the World War II B-17 Flying Fortress "Bad Sack" crew recently reunited after 45 years.

Radio operator gunner, Vassil Georgeff, of Granite City, and navigator crew member, Lt. Richard Cawley of Palm Harbor, Fla.

Georgeff only had a 1946 photograph of the Fortress group taken in England to remember his mates. After many years of wondering what had become of them, he said, "I started tracking them down. He found Cawley through the 91st Bomb Group Memorial Directory.

He spent the recent Christmas holiday with his daughter in Orlando. He and his wife then drove to western Florida and had his first meeting with Cawley in 45 years. "What a thrill," Georgeff said.

"He had flown two combat missions with another crew and thus completed 25 missions while I completed my 40th and 45th missions with my fourth pilot two weeks later," Georgeff said.

"He and I both received the Air Medal with three oak leaf clusters plus the distinguished Flying Cross with three oak leaf clusters."

The two men had their allegiance with Hollywood turned out. "A lot of the interrogating officers at our base was movie actor Major Burgess Meredith. Movie actor Clark Gable flew five missions with our squadron," Georgeff said.

The 91st Bomb Group consisted of four squadrons, 322nd, 323rd, 324th and 401st. "Our group had the best record in England of safe returns and most enemy aircraft destroyed, 420," he said.

Young at Heart plans potluck

The Young at Heart Seniors of Holy Family Church met on Monday, Aug. 10, in the Friendship Room. The meeting was conducted by President Lucille Gahan. Reports were given. "Our group holds the best records in England of safe returns and most enemy aircraft destroyed, 420," he said.

An announcement was made by Irma Manning and Sr. Margaret Mary that some trips are being planned for the months of September and October.

The evening's guest speaker was Kathy Aubuchon, director of development for King's House in Belleville. She discussed a retreat that will be held for members of the Granite City area Senior 55+ Association.

Those interested in attending may contact Ruth Rotter or Helen Todoroff.

Refreshments were served and games were played with the following winners: Warren Bequette, Ann Hordesky, Don Kenny, Ann Giese, Wilma Vavra, Dorothy Hughes, Helen Todoroff, Al Mance, Kathy Mathis, Ruth Rotter, Mary Rita Ahlers and Francis Vivod.

Prizes, donated by Ann Pieper and Thomas Mortuary, were won by Margaret Kowalski and Helen Todoroff. Cakes were won by Mary Lapinski and Frances Henry.

The next meeting, scheduled for Sept. 18, will be a potluck dinner and entertainment will be provided by Art Bertacchi and friends.

Seniorama will be in Belleville

Seniorama '89 is southern Illinois' largest Expo of resources and activities for pre-retirees, seniors and families. The second annual Seniorama will be held on Friday, Sept. 22, from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. at the Belle-Clair Fairgrounds Exposition Hall in Belleville.

Mayor Richard A. Brauer of Belleville has declared the event as "Senior Awareness Day."

Last year, Seniorama attracted more than 4,000 people. This year, approximately 6,000 older adults and their families are expected to come and learn about the resources available to them.

Seniorama '89 will feature seminars presented by experts in the fields of retirement planning, health and fitness, investments and Social Security.

Attendees may visit over 100 booths with information on finance, housing, recreation, health, nutrition and more.

Free and open to the public, it will feature the performance of Russ David and His Combo with Dottie Bennett. Other local entertainers are scheduled throughout the day.

It is sponsored by Magna Group Inc. and the Magna Security Club, a club specifically designed to meet the needs of adults 60 years and older. The Security Club has active membership of almost 25,000.

Repeal of catastrophic health coverage sought

By Sabrina Eaton
Staff writer

WASHINGTON — Sen. John Danforth, the Senate's sole catastrophic health legislation, telling the Senate he will introduce a measure to repeal the controversial Medicare Catastrophic Coverage Act of 1988 and have Congress draft a replacement.

"I am concerned that we have developed a program of major care that many elderly people do not want to want to," Danforth said. "I am concerned that in so doing we may be trying to play God. In my judgment, the best thing to do is to repeal the program and revisit this critical issue."

Danforth proposes that the coverage be phased out gradually to avoid harming those currently dependent on the insurance.

Many senior citizens believe the controversial law designed to protect them from massive runups to their medical bills is actually soaking them for high premium payments. Another concern is that it fails to provide for long-term nursing home care.

Under the law, Medicare recipients with incomes in the range of $35,000 to $40,000 end up pay $900 annually for coverage that many already have through other insurance plans. And those who owe federal income tax must pay a supplemental tax of $22.50 for every $150 of debt to the government.

A flurry of complaints from senior citizens prompted members of Congress to introduce 42 measures to either repeal, delay or amend the law.

Danforth also supported the bill last year, said he grew to question it after talking to senior citizens at town meetings.

GC songwriter moves ahead

Joyce A. Hand, daughter of former Granite City Mayor and Mrs. Charles W. Moerlein of Granite City, has been invited by Master Stage Productions, Inc. to submit songs she has written for the Midwest Singers' Search.

They have asked her to sing as many songs as possible to her own music as well as to other music.

Winners will receive free recording sessions and a management contract.

There will be 25 judges from movie producers, songwriters, lyric judges and movie stars looking for new material. Submissions end in December, and during the first week of January winners will be chosen.

There will be winners from pop, country, jazz, music and lyrics, and rock.

Hand has had a song out titled, "A Tiny Teardrop" in England and will be recorded at Chapel Recordings in Waukegan, Mass., by a Nashville singer, Doty Frost. She also has a poem published in a book titled, "Early California Song," that will be sent include: "A Tiny Teardrop," "Wishes of Love," "Born Hold Me," "Love When I'm Gone," "Remember Mountain Boogie," "Everybody Loves Some Love," "Fantasy," "Take Me Back or Turn Me Loose," "Just Rock Baby," "Where You Go Again" and "Today I Started Loving You Again."

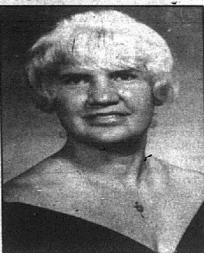

Hand has had a band for eight years called "The Four" and has performed all over the Midwest. She has also sung solo as a special guest for "Wood River Country Show," "Sports and Music," "Country House and Top Records in Nashville, Tenn., of which she is a member.

Hand can play several instruments including singing since she was three years old; she started playing piano at five.

"This is the chance I've been waiting for all my life, as music is my life," Hand said, "and to have 25 important people listening to my music is a dream come true."

She credits her music background to the Moerlein family.

"My dad would play the harmonica and whistle, 'The Missouri Waltz'; my mom played piano and sang, and my seven brothers and five sisters all played band instruments. One brother sang opera."

Joyce Hand
Granite City

(She added, "I'm the seventh child of 13 children and because we were so poor, my mom, we had our own bus stop in front of our house for school!")

Hand was also interviewed by John Capp, a Nashville talent scout who is director of the Chase Park Plaza Hotel who wants her to come to his studio, sing and make a master recording.

Hand stated she never knew back in 1980 in singing with two high school students on their first session at Bill Burns' Cafeteria that she would lead her to where she is today.

Two years ago Mr. and Mrs. Bill Burns came to the Holiday Inn to hear Hand sing solo with a Nashville band too, "I Started Loving You Again."

Other fans came from all over, also, according to Hand. Hand was asked to come back and sing again with the band a week later. "I want to thank Mr. and Mrs. Burns for believing in me. It's going to be a hard while until I get my letter, but my hopes are up and I'm very excited. All I can think of is that 25 important people are going to take my music seriously when I do. I'm going to do a lot of praying from August to January," she said. "I put my heart and soul into my music."

Births

Twins arrive in Jones household

Mr. and Mrs. Jeffrey D. (Chery) Jones of Pontoon Beach are announcing the birth of their twins, a son, born at 4:29 a.m. and a daughter, born at 4:30 a.m., on Aug. 18, at St. John's Mercy Medical Center in St. Louis.

Their son was named Christopher Dean and weighed 5 pounds, 7 ounces, and was 18 inches long. Their daughter was 5 pounds, 7 ounces, and was 18 inches long. Their daughter was named Melinda Marie and she weighed 5 pounds, 5 ounces and was 18 inches long. They also have another child, Jamie Lynn, 6.

The paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Alva Dean (Dolores) Jones and the maternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. John D. (Kathy) Goodrich, all of Granite City.

Robertson family announces birth

Mr. and Mrs. Gene E. Robertson Jr. of Granite City are announcing the birth of their first child, Kari Marie.

She was born on Aug. 18 at 11:30 p.m. at St. Elizabeth's in Granite City.

She weighed 9 pounds, 2 ounces and was 21 inches long.

Maternal grandparents are Carolyn Large of Granite City and Paul Reedy of Bettendorf.

Paternal grandparents are Gene E. Robertson Sr. and Rosalie Robertson, both of Madison.

How to submit your articles

Items for the organization page, which includes both clubs and churches, may be directed to the Press-Record/Journal at 1815 Delmar Ave., Granite City, Ill. 62040.

Photos of a reprintable quality also will be considered for publication.

'Little' Lowell Mason to appear

International TV and recording artist, Lowell Mason, will be appearing Sept. 8, 9, 10 & 17 each evening and at 10:40 on Sunday morning) at Emmanuel Baptist Church, 1800 Pontoon Road.

Mason has been called the world's smallest gospel singer because of his unique height of only 46 inches. He is noted for his singing ability.

Lowell Mason began his career at the age of 9. At that time he joined the staff of the "Children's Bible Hour" radio broadcast out of Grand Rapids, Mich. For seven years, he was a regular feature on that weekly radio program, which was heard from coast to coast. In his teen-age years, Lowell worked with the organization, called, "Youth for Christ" in the United States, and with "Victorious Christian Youth" in Canada. During his Junior High and High School years, Lowell was constantly in demand for weekend and summer personal appearances.

After completion of high school in 1955, Lowell Mason joined the Cecil Todd Evangelistic Team of Joplin, Mo. In 1961, the team established Christian Evangelizers Association.

The Christian Evangelizers Association produced a weekly television series called "Revival Fires." The Revival Fires TV program was seen on more than 150 television stations throughout the United States. Lowell Mason was featured regularly on this program from 1964 until 1974.

Little Lowell and the Masons travel nearly 100,000 miles each year taking the Gospel in song to people of all faiths.

There is no admission charge, said Pastor William M. Mullis.

Trustee Robert Douglas had a different view. "It's not rejected; our attorney is going to submit our counterproposal and submit these changes to you," he said.

"If the whole board is going to negotiate it, the snow will be falling," Stewart said.

"We want to put this contract together and we have to go back to our people if there are changes made," Stewart said. "Next time, I'll ask you people to ratify first before we accept it."

"I can see how this thing could drag out, but we had to bring it back before the board," the mayor said. "I anticipate it taking ready by the next meeting."

"We want to be 100 percent sure before it goes back to you," Village Attorney Bill Nemeth said. "There are things discussed by the board are not so much changes; they are questions."

Trustee Loren Madison commented, "If you give a commit-

Trustee Robert Douglas had a different view. "It's not rejected; our attorney is going to submit our counterproposal and submit these changes to you," he said.

"I can see how this thing could drag out, but we had to bring it back before the board," the mayor said. "I anticipate it taking ready by the next meeting."

"We want to be 100 percent sure before it goes back to you," Village Attorney Bill Nemeth said. "There are things discussed by the board are not so much changes; they are questions."

Trustee Loren Madison commented, "If you give a committee the power to negotiate a contract, they should do that."

"I have confidence in the committee you appointed," Trustee Irene Karchelik said to the mayor.

The village's negotiating team includes Trustee Bob Abel, village Police Committee chairman, and Trustee Marvin Bingham and Mayfield Wilson.

"We did come up with some changes, but they are good changes for the benefit of the men," Abel said after the meeting. "We are only looking after our own people."

"I share your frustration," Jensen said to Stewart. "As you can see, we have the same thing with changes by the county (on improvement of Engineer Road)."

Jensen was referring to another part of the special meeting dealing with documentation required to complete procedures for a low-interest infrastructure loan.

The Pontoon Beach Police Department has nine full-time police officers, including Chief Chet Ballou and Assistant Chief Harold J. Denham, plus four dispatchers and one person serving as department secretary and dispatcher.

"We want to be 100 percent sure before it goes back to you," Village Attorney Bill Nemeth said. "There are things discussed by the board are not so much changes; they are questions."

Ceiling area falls, exposes asbestos

By Meg Tebo
Staff writer

GRANITE CITY — Parents at St. Elizabeth Catholic School received letters from Principal Beverly Foote last week warning them of asbestos exposure in the school after a ceiling collapsed following heavy rains.

On Aug. 24, the area around a ceiling fan in the sixth grade classroom fell. No one was injured in the incident, but the collapse tore the protective seal that kept asbestos particles in ceiling tiles from becoming airborne.

Adhering to federal guidelines requiring her to notify parents, Foote sent home letters outlining the course of action taken by the school to remedy the problem.

In the letter, Foote said the room was immediately sealed off and all parents and students who had been in the room were asked to have their children take showers and bring all clothing they had been wearing that day to the school in plastic bags for special cleaning.

An asbestos-removal specialist was called to the scene to take air samples and begin a cleanup. Air samples showed that the amount of asbestos released was not in the "dangerous" level by federal government standards.

The sixth grade class has been rotated elsewhere in the building and the room where the incident occurred will remain sealed until the ceiling is fixed by professional asbestos handlers.

Tax bill of rights legislation signed the state on underpayments.

In addition, the new law requires the department to include an explanation of its liability or penalties on all tax notices. It requires that property and other assets seized by the state for nonpayment of taxes be placed in an escrow account for 10 days before taxpayers are given an opportunity to challenge any orders made by DOR.

An annual report by DOR to the General Assembly on tax laws or guidelines with which taxpayers frequently do not comply is also required.

Legislation which is designed to help consumers save on the ever-increasing cost of sending children to college was also signed into law this week.

SB 1348 will rename the Illinois State Scholarship Commission the Illinois Student Assistance Commission (ISAC) and authorizes the commission to develop and offer new programs to help students attend college and encourage parents to save for their children's college education.

Current law does not permit the commission to establish college savings programs.

The college savings programs authorized by the new law are to be specifically geared toward middle-income persons who probably earn enough not to qualify for scholarship assistance.

The ISAC will be allowed to contract with private businesses and other parties to establish college savings programs and will market and promote college savings programs. The new commission will also develop a pay-as-you-earn education program for students to participate in college savings programs.

SB 1349 authorizes the ISAC to originate, guarantee, acquire and service guaranteed loans to students through the issuance of bonds.

This year $50 million in bonds were issued for the commission to finance its first direct loan program to students regardless of financial need.

The plan will allow students to borrow up to $2,625 per year for their first two years of college and up to $4,000 their junior and senior years.

Graduate students will be allowed to borrow up to $7,500 per year.

The federally backed ISSC loans will be available next year, and would carry a guaranteed eight percent interest rate. Students would be required to pay a deduction for a portion of the loans but could defer payment on the principal itself until after graduation.

Half of Bi-State's safety-sensitive personnel will be tested each year under the plan. Testing must begin by Dec. 21, Sehr said.

Referring to treatment those who test positive "at least saves a life," Sehr said. "It gives them time to get their head on straight," Bartlett said.

The union has proposed that those who fail the random drug test be given 90 days of unpaid leave to complete a drug treatment program, and then be put on a waiting list, in seniority order, to be recalled if a job opened.

No further meetings have been scheduled with management to work out details of the plan, Bartlett said.

Bi-State bus officials and the union representing drivers and mechanics, who soon will be subject to random screening for drug use, are close to an agreement to end a 10-month-old dispute over a provision in the union's contract which requires drivers to fail a random drug test, officials for both sides said.

Thomas Sehr, Bi-State's deputy general manager, and Bob Bartlett, president of Amalgamated Transit Union Local 788, told this newspaper that those who fail random drug tests will be referred to the agency's employee assistance program, which underwrites treatment programs.

"We're very close to reaching a solution with the union," Sehr said.

School's back, so drive safely

The following is by Secretary of State Jim Edgar.

School's Open Safety Week

is under way again in Illinois. As children return to classes, drivers must remember to slow down to the 20 mph speed limit in school zones.

The 20 mph limit is mandatory on school days between 7 a.m. and 4 p.m. when children are present. Signs are posted.

At the start of a new school year, excited children may forget the rules for pedestrian and traffic safety. Therefore, you should remind children to obey near schools but also in residential areas and at bus stops.

School safety patrols, adult crossing guards, police officers and school police assist students at many crossings. However, drivers should also be alert at other crossings where pedestrian safety depends solely on drivers slowing down and stopping.

Two types of yellow signs warn you of school areas and crossings. Both are shaped like a diamond.

The first type shows two children walking and warns of school crossings ahead or of school grounds next to the road.

The second sign shows two children walking in a crosswalk and is posted at school crossing sign posts.

It is a good safe-driving practice to slow down any time you see a school sign.

Classes may be held at different hours and many activities are held after school, at night or on the weekend.

Absence basis for member's removal

VENICE — Patricia King was removed from the Venice Board of Education by Regional Superintendent of Schools Harry Briggs Jr. for failing to show up for at least one of two board meetings during the past 40 months.

King could not be reached for comment.

Briggs said he received a request from the Venice school board asking him to hold a hearing on King because her absence "created problems for them and made it difficult sometimes for them to obtain a quorum to conduct board business."

He said he sent a letter to King by certified mail informing her of that correspondence, either.

SIUE has non-credit workshops for starting small businesses

The Office of Continuing Education at Southern Illinois University Edwardsville will offer two non-credit workshops this fall for people interested in starting small businesses.

A workshop for women wishing to establish a business will be held Saturday, Oct. 21, from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Registration is $35. Content will include how to find and pay for professional assistance, developing business plan and other issues critical to starting a small business.

Wiley chosen as new member of school board

VENICE — The school board chose Janet Wiley on Thursday night to fill the position left open when Patricia King was removed from the board last month.

Superintendent of Schools Charles McCaskill was unsure how many candidates were interviewed and none of the board members could be reached Friday.

Wiley will fill the remainder of King's term, scheduled to end in 1991.

"I've always been interested in doing things around the schools. I've been in the PTA, and the school board is something I've always wanted to do," Wiley said.

Wiley has three children in Venice schools and two children in college. She lives at 108 Carpenter.

The board announced it will hold a special meeting to discuss personnel Thursday, Sept. 7, 1989 at 6 p.m. in the board room.

Robertson gets 2 as Warriors win opener

By Dave Whaley

Executive sports editor

KIRKWOOD, Mo. — Maybe Mike Villa wasn't just blowing his Vianney soccer team away when he said his Vianney soccer team was a little down and inexperienced this year. Or maybe the Golden Griffins had run into a buzzsaw from Granite City Saturday.

Whatever the case may be, the Warriors opened the season in impressive fashion, scoring twice in the first seven minutes and again in the second half for an easy 3-0 win on the Griffins' home field. Skip Birdsong got things going with a goal after just four minutes, and Jim Robertson added twice as the Warriors stuck it to Vianney's overwhelmed defense.

"Our speed really showed early," said Warrior coach Gene Baker. "And we can't expect this team on its own field to have it feel very good. We just came out ready to play and we exploded a little bit."

That's exactly more than a little. And the blast left Villa a little starry-eyed.

"We weren't ready to play," he said. "Granite City just hit us. That was the best I've ever seen a Granite City team look, and I've seen a lot of great teams Gene's had."

The Griffins had played Thursday and lost 1-0 to Rosary, but as Villa's goal and the game as Vianney dominated play for the most part. So there weren't any first-game jitters for the Griffins to worry about. Any fears of a slow start by the Warriors were quickly dispelled.

Birdsong raced to a loose ball down the left side four minutes into the game and lofted a beautiful left-footer of the far post and in past Vianney goalkeeper Jeff Rottler.

Robertson could have had four goals. Minutes after his first one, he broke through the defense, drilled the ball into the net and hit the post from a sharp angle. He had another chance late in the half when keeper Brian Lampe, who replaced Rottler after the first, couldn't handle a pass back from one of his defenders. Robertson again got to the ball at a sharp angle and hit the side of the net.

"You can't blame their keeper on one of those," said Baker. Vianney picked up the play a little in the second half, but the Warriors held the Griffins at bay for the most part. Granite City goalkeeper Brian Broshaw made his best save 10 minutes into the second half on a screen shot by John Rodis. Broshaw got his hand on another shot that weaved smartly through the Griffins' defense and easily beat Rottler from close range to round out the scoring.

"We're trying to get Jay to cut the ball more, and he's picking up on that," said Baker. "He can obviously be a big threat around the goal. There is still a great deal for him to learn, but this was a great start."

Then it was the Jay Robertson Show. He had a hand in both goals, one who hit Robertson with a perfect pass up the middle and through the defense. Rottler came out and stopped Robertson's shot, but Robertson collected the rebound and calmly slid it in for his first varsity goal.

At the 26:00 mark, Robertson took a pass from Sean Bain and took a pass from Sean Bain and

Irish football airs on WRYT

Area college football fans will now be able to follow the defending national champion Fighting Irish and Notre Dame on WRYT-TV (1000).

WRYT has picked up exclusive rights in the St. Louis market for Notre Dame football. The Irish are held in high esteem for the national title once again this year. Under head coach Lou Holtz, the Irish beat West Virginia in the Fiesta Bowl last year with a 24-23 victory and many pre-season polls are predicting another national championship.

"Our Notre Dame coverage will give football fans an alternative to what they've always listened to," said WRYT sports director Glenn Backmann. "We're very glad to be associated with Notre Dame. It will really firms our image as the sports leader in the metro east, while also providing alternative programming to St. Louis."

"It's great not to be tied to the tube every weekend throughout the fall, you can take us and Notre Dame along."

National award winner Tony Roberts is predicted to be the play-by-play, Neilson Trophy candidate Tony Rice will quarterback the Irish into battle with the likes of Michigan, USC, Penn State and Miami. Notre Dame at Miami on Nov. 25 could very well be a major factor in determining this year's national

Petri relying on local talent to lead Dutchmen kickers

By Scott Marion

Staff writer

BELLEVILLE — When Belleville football coach Larry Petri said he wanted to build his team with local talent, he wasn't kidding.

Bac's starter features players mostly from metro east high schools, including 13 from perennial powers Granite City and Collinsville.

"We're stronger depth-wise, stronger in goal and much better in the midfield," Petri said. "The creativity each player gives us will make us much more exciting."

The Dutchmen are coming off a 9-10-2 season in 1988.

"I thought we should have been a little better," Petri said. "I'm a Granite City native who also coached the program when it was at the Granite City Campus until last season. But for not having a great returning crew, we did adequately."

"We still lost to Lewis & Clark in the Region 24 championship game, but we did get a step forward."

Petri is encouraged by what he called a banner year for recruiting.

"We have 17 new faces," he said. "We lost some sophomores who would have been returning, but the freshmen we've recruited probably would have been starters anyway."

Petri is especially impressed with David Boyer, a freshman midfielder from Belleville East. "He's a quality kid who looks like a team leader," Petri said. "He's played strong so far in practice."

The Collinsville contingent includes midfielders Mark Kellam and Dave Wessner and back Chris Moders. The goalkeepers are Tony Drew of Roxana and Mike Taylor of Granite City.

"Drew has the edge at this point," Petri said. "He's the type of player who can lead defensively and offensively and dominate the box. He's short as far as goalkeepers go, but he's

First-year Miners a team to be reckoned with in future

I had a feeling a Granite City team might be a welcome addition to the area baseball scene. The Miners proved that feeling to be correct.

Having wrapped up their first season with a 24-24 overall record, the Miners firmly established themselves as a team to be reckoned with in the future of area amateur baseball. There were ups and downs along the way, but it was generally felt the season ended on the upswing.

If the Miners, or whatever the team might be called in the future, become an established power in years to come, they might well look back on Aug. 26, 1989, as a way to go. The team's victory over Granite City sent shock waves throughout the Mon-Clair League by stunning top-seeded Waterloo 3-2 in the first round of the playoffs.

That was only the high point of the maiden season as Doug Rains overcame shoulder problems to hold off the high-scoring Buds for nine innings while his teammates scored just enough to spring the upset.

But even before that, the Miners had impressed their competition with a record bigger and better things.

(Mon-Clair League president) Mel Patton told me that we are the best new addition to the league in recent time," said Miners general manager Woody Moad, who was persistent in his efforts to make the team a reality last year. "We were early pacesetters in the league, but what we did exceed my expectations.

To make the playoffs, the both league leaders had to beat Waterloo like we did was just great."

It was probably the success of the great Granite City High School team of 1988 which paved the way for getting a local team into the Mon-Clair League as well as the Metro East Night League. Moad's son John is a junior on that 29-10 Waterloo team that reached the playoffs.

Sports Comment

By Dave Whaley

Hogan, Jamie / Hogan, Darin / Hendrickson, Scott / LeVault and Ron / Whaley

But what really kept the Miners going all year was the middle of the lineup. Tom Greco exploded back onto the scene after a couple of years in the minor baseball. The 27-year-old leftfielder blasted 17 home runs, drove in 56 runs and batted over .331 in 45 games.

Greco had people buzzing all over the league, but Woody Moad thought it was another hot bat that really made a difference late in the year.

People talk about Greco, and he was good," said Moad. "But when Doug (DePew) got hot with the bat, Everybody thinks Greco is our one big stud, but Daren can be just as good as Tom. He doesn't know how many times they hit back-to-back homers (as they did at Waterloo in the playoffs), but when Daren came to life we really could win."

DePew finished with eight home runs, 37 RBIs and an average well over .300. In addition, he was by far the best defensive catcher in the league. He did all that while managing the team, which can lead to headaches for a 24-year-old, especially in its first year.

There were plenty of problems, but DePew had the right temperament. He never got too high or too low for too long and kept the team going in the right direction.

The team has a bright future. The pitching staff can't be hit as hard by injuries as the whole team. With a reliable Darin Hendrickson, Rich Minder and Scott Rains, that will help a lot. Scott LeVault should improve as he gets more experience. Mark Rains was a valuable part of the team, especially in relief.

One more lefthander would be nice, and Mark Regando could fill the bill. The 1989 GCHS grad is at Head Lake Community College and is being coached this year by Brian "Pick" Clawson, so he could come back next summer as a much-improved pitcher.

Another outfielder would be nice also, and Todd Hinterser could help there. After being undrafted about a week ago, he will play this summer. Hinterser had decided to play for the Miners in early June when it was determined a back injury would keep him out of action for the summer. He's now at Austin Peay University.

Helping solidify the outfield late in the year was Rich Takemoto. He was one of the best team batters over the last three weeks. He started slowly and his final average was nothing to write home about, but Takemoto was consistently hitting the ball hard when the season ended.

Scott LeVault should improve as he gets more experience. Mark Rains was a valuable part of the team, especially in relief.

"A lot of credit should go to (WV) Doug (Fisher) our manager," said Moad. "There are a lot of borderline players who have good problems with him. But the good ones know what he's trying to do. He knows the game and has a reputation. You can see a little bit of him in most of these guys. The way they battled in the playoffs was a credit to Bob."

NOTES: It's back to school for many of the young baseball players. John Maud is a sophomore at Lewis and Clark; Bowen is a senior at Aurora University; Wilson is a junior at Alton High; and the Horne Juniors), Rich Minder, Bob Sirkat, Tim Wargo (all seniors) and Darin Hendrickson are at SIUE. Hendrickson is a sophomore at Lewis and Clark the past two years, has a full scholarship to play for the Cougars as fall practice begins this week. He will return to the intramural baseball team he showed in high school and American Legion ball. Hendrickson will be quite a sight in the fall.

SIUE's Doug Fish is the Cougar pitching coach, and DePew will again serve as an assistant to Collins this fall.

Tony Pena is smiling a lot these days, which usually means what a man does when he is about to lose his job.

Pena's days as a member of the Cardinals are coming closer to an end. The man who will bring him in, Todd Zeile, to set what he can pick up from Pena before he is gone.

Callers to the radio talk shows are lamenting Pena's talk, wishing there was something that could be done to change the decision that already has been made. People who were excited when Pena was acquired, then critical of him for most of his career, are now suddenly not want him to leave.

Weep not, however, for Pena. If he wanted sympathy, he would be willing and with a constant smile on his face.

Pena soon may be an ex-employee of the Cardinals, but he is also just a few months away from a very rich man.

He is a guy who is coming off a two-year, $2 million-plus contract who stands to make even more money before he joins a new team.

Pena has been an All-Star catcher for the National League, and in his manager's opinion is the best catcher in the league.

"Who's been asking Whitley Herzog?" Right now there's nobody in this league I would take over Tony Pena."

Herzog understands the economics of baseball, and he knows money is the reason Zeile will be the Cardinals' catcher next year instead of Pena. The test will be how much money — $1 million in salary — money that hopefully will be reinvested in a strong right-left arm.

But the same baseball economics that dictate the Cardinals go with Zeile also is the reason for Pena's smiling face. Some team will be looking for a catcher, and Pena's going to be the first guy they go after.

Los Angeles Dodgers catcher Mike Scioscia would have been available as a free agent at the end of this season, but he signed with the Dodgers for $5.7 million, and he is not available for the two Herzog said the only thing Scioscia does better than Pena is block the plate.

Pena admits he has started to think about his future, although he also likes his present situation, trying to end his career with the Cardinals with another permanent. He has not settled out with a team, but he is open to consider, although he says he wants to go to a contending team.

If you are looking for candidates, start with the Boston Red Sox, who were interested in trading for Pena a month ago.

Boston manager Joe Morgan is a close friend of Mike Roarke, the Cardinal pitching coach, who can tell him how much Pena has meant to the Cardinal pitching staff the past two years.

At the same time, Pena might go after Pena is the New York Mets. They almost certainly won't re-sign Gary Carter, which will give them some money to play with. Pena certainly is better than either Barry Lyons or Mackey Sasser, and you can bet the Mets would love to steal Pena away from the Cardinals.

Another possibility, at least until Syd Thrift quit as GM last week, was the New York Yankees. Thrift was the man who traded Pena to Pittsburgh for Jim Sundberg, but the two got along well. Other possibilities would seem to include the Texas Rangers, Toronto Blue Jays, San Diego Padres and the Cincinnati Francisco Giants. The Cincinnati Reds would have been another team, but they seem to have settled on Joe Morgan as their catcher of the future.

What shouldn't be overlooked is that Pena could attract some interest from the proposed new league. He would be a good fit for the ground. He would seem to be the type of player that league would be interested in, having some name recognition and a good deal of all-around ability.

Pena's agent is Tom Reich, who reportedly is involved in setting up the new league. And he would like to involve in the deal, he was Jack Clark's agent who led him to sign with the Yankees, becoming the first big-name free agent to switch clubs after the collusion era ended.

It would be a blow to the Cardinals because the team would be denied the amateur draft pick it will receive from a major-league team as compensation for his leaving. ****

Just three of the Cardinals' eight farm teams — Class AA Arkansas, and Class A St. Petersburg and Springfield — made the playoffs in their respective leagues.

Practice makes perfect for all outdoor skills

Skill: "The ability to do something well, arising from training, training or practice." So says the Revised Edition of the Random House College Dictionary.

As an outdoor writer, it is fun to be skillful. As an outdoor writer, it is a privilege to observe those with exceptional skill practice it.

Those taking hunter education courses learn that knowledge, skill and attitude are the three keys to being a good, safe hunter.

Within that context, they learn that skill requires practice. In other words, you study how to do something and then you practice that technique until you can do it correctly.

As an outdoor writer, it is frustrating to know what should be done and how to do it — but then not practice enough to be capable of consistently doing it. And the key word there is consistently.

We know what should be done and how to do it, but for many reasons, we don't practice. The reasons are not good.

Fishing is a good example of that. At the recent BASS Masters Classic, I spent a day on the water with a top angler, Jim Morris from Exeter, Mo., 1988 Classic Champ Guide Hibdon from Gravo Mills, Mo., and the legendary Roland Martin from Clewiston, Fla.

Busch Wildlife Area a favorite

Many hunters feel a deep kinship with a particular forest, whether it's big or small. As a long-time woods hunter, I know the feeling.

I know that my grief was very real when a favorite woodlot, a small area of mature oaks and hickory trees covering no more than 10 acres, was recently felled, piled and burned — all for the largely useless purpose of a sufficiently large duck lake when there are few migrating ducks.

Huge whitetail bucks with ivory-tipped antlers roamed that tiny forest. The turkey gobblers frequently strutted, preened and fed along its abundantly mast-covered floor, which contained a patch of woods that was the home base for unbelievable populations of deer, turkey and squirrels.

Of course, nothing stays the same forever, and this is especially true regarding the ever-changing rural landscape. A prime woodlot teeming with game and non-game species alike, may be next year's soybean field, corn patch or subdivision. And all who deeply loved that small mast-covered area, or places, yet untouched by human greed and environmental indifference.

But where will it all end?

It's a fact that hunting is on private land, you still can count on public areas remaining much the same from year to year. If, however, the Busch Wildlife Area, Highway 60 and High 94 in St. Charles County has been greatly enhanced for wildlife over the years. And this is true, though the area is heavily farmed.

Field trials, bird watching, picnic areas, hiking trails, guided nature walks, fishing, hunting and limited photographic opportunities all are at the wildlife area.

It's funny how, over the years you may have attached to a certain area, hunt it every chance you get; and then for an obscure or unknown reason, go to other places.

For many years I was a regular at the Busch Area, having been there the day it opened for fishing in May 1981. For many years thereafter, I hunted small, hunted rabbits during their short season, hiked in late winter and always managed to get in several squirrel hunts in late summer, sometimes doubling up doves the same day with bushytails.

Because the area is spread

Outdoors
By Larry Bulus

over 7,000 acres of varied terrain, much woods with prime oak and hickory. I hardly ever ran into another hunter.

Squirrel hunting at the wildlife area has seen rather significant increases, however, as opposed to the statewide squirrel season elsewhere. Hunting season opened Aug. 15 and is allowed only a half hour to 7 p.m. Monday through Friday.

The squirrel limit — fox or gray — at Busch is four per day.

The short squirrel season, I would like to see the morning starting hour begin at 6:30 or 7 a.m., even if it means eliminating the afternoon hunting. I would like to see the squirrel season run through September, because I think the large amount of prime timber and the modest damage of hunting in this vast area easily warrants it.

The peak of squirrel feeding activity is during the first two hours after sunrise. Any tree squirrel, however, will tell you, "Give me the first two hours in the morning and you can have the rest of the day."

So, hope for a somewhat more liberal change in morning shooting hours. I never have had a quarrel with the four-squirrel limit. From a hunting viewpoint, four squirrels are enough for me to clean, when I can get them.

For the past several years other places had been getting my squirrel hunting attention, but lately a little woods I frequently visited went into the Busch Area kept calling into my mind.

The attraction undoubtedly hinged on it being on fairly level ground, full of mature oak and hickory, hilltops and, as a consequence, undoubtedly a plentiful supply of squirrels.

I admit to being a hopeless neophyte. More often than not, I would enter the old woods still looked the same, and if the squirrels still worked the same nut-laden hickories. In my mind I had a quiet stalk, a narrow rain-wet drain that split the north end of the small woodlot in two, wondering if I could after all those many years of absence still hear squirrels from the shagbarks on the left and the huge den trees on the right if I crept along at a small's pace.

There was no way to find out except to see for myself, and so on a recent morning I bought my $1 tag at the check station, hopped into my truck and headed for the little woods, and exactly at 8 a.m. fed the Browning three high brass loads of No. 6 shot.

After the passing of my first hunting year, however, I still remembered individual trees. And, sure enough, the squirrels — surely many generations descended from those that had been there — were there in good numbers. The only change I found was that the woods, formerly the exclusive hangout for squirrels, now had as many geese. My bag of four bushytails, taken in an hour or so, consisted of two of each.

It seems investors are not willing to part with, or purchase, Rose cards, which are worth up to $1 for this year's $7,700 for Rose's 1983 rookie card.

"There's been no action to speak of," said Gerard Dolci, manager of the St. Louis Beckett Card Store on Gravois Road. "Everyone asks, 'Everybody's buying.' But nobody's buying."

But Dolci doesn't see Rose's recent streak of appearances at baseball card shows and on home shopping television as

Card collectors await Rose's new value

By Thom Kuhn

Former Cincinnati Reds manager Pete Rose can apply for re-entry into major league baseball in August 1990. But for many fans, 1988 is the real date of destiny.

That's the day the next edition of the Beckett Baseball Card Price Guide is due, with the first indication of what Rose's banishment from the game will mean to the price of cards that feature major-league baseball's all-time hit leader.

Rose was suspended from baseball for life last week over allegations of gamblers.

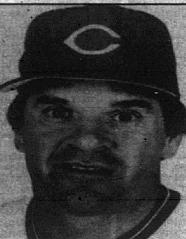

Baseball is a bible of card collecting, with monthly updates on trends and price fluctuations. Until the next issue comes out, local dealers say, buyers and sellers are playing their cards close to the vest.

It seems investors are not willing to part with, or purchase,

Rose cards, which are worth up to $1 for this year's $7,700 for Rose's 1983 rookie card.

"There's been no action to speak of," said Gerard Dolci, manager of the St. Louis Beckett Card Store on Gravois Road. "Everyone asks, 'Everybody's buying.' But nobody's buying."

But Dolci doesn't see Rose's recent streak of appearances at baseball card shows and on home shopping television as

Pete Rose

...what are cards worth now?

being particularly healthy for prices, despite the fact that

Tops Co. Inc., which makes the cards, has discontinued anything with the former Reds manager's face on it.

"It's the law of supply and demand, and if he's out there selling all of that stuff, the market will get flooded and the price will have to go down," Dolci said.

But the inactivity by collectors on the Rose collection isn't anything new, said Clyde Woolbright of Short Stop Baseball Collectibles on Manchester Road.

Buyers in the ever-changing card-collecting game — where the phrase that pays is "What have you done for me lately?" — abandoned Rose when he broke Ty Cobb's all-time hit record, Woolbright said.

After next month's price guide, the next big date for collectors is the Hall of Fame in Cooperstown, N.Y., in August 1990. But for many fans, 1988 is the real date of destiny.

"I haven't had a rush of people coming in and asking for the Rose cards," Dolci said.

"But when it's Hall of Fame time comes around, things might be different."

And whether Rose is enshrined in Cooperstown or not, his fees will be back in the spotlight, and that means big money for collectors.

"Look what happened to Steve (Sandy) Jackson cards," said Bart Coleman of West County Sports Collectibles.

Jackson was banned from baseball for allegedly throwing the 1974 World Series. He was a member of the Chicago White Sox, and he has never been allowed in the Hall of Fame.

"When he didn't make the Hall of Fame, the price of his card skyrocketed," Coleman said.

Seibel

49, has not been doing well on the circuit for the past couple of years. However, he's earned the prestigious "49er" title. An unbelievable nine times apiece, he's notched 16 national tournament wins on his rod handle. The only thing he hasn't won is a world title.

Martin admitted that fishing tournaments have lost some of the sizzle for him, that it is not as challenging as it once was. But he's still dedicated to that salt water fishing — something relatively new in his life — really excites him.

He told me that as we fished plastic worms for bass on the first day of practice at the 1988 Classic on the James River out of Richmond, Va. In one of his books on fishing, Martin described 19 different ways to fish a plastic worm. It is not exciting anymore for the man who wrote the book, who has been fishing for 25 years.

But when I tried an area of floating lily pads, he demonstrated some of the finest fishing skills I've ever witnessed. He cast his Devil's Horse, a long slender topwater with a small propeller on each end. Martin would cast into a pocket in the pads and "slurp" it across the tip with short, slow twitches of his rod tip.

The amazing thing was that he always stopped the pads with the hook specifically on the back-side. And when he ran out of room, he would give his rod a little flip and the bait would jump. I've never seen anything like it in my life. He hung up only twice as we fished a huge pad field.

Martin also hung a six-pound bass, rolled a four-pounder and got a six-inch fish. He got excited. "I think we've discovered something major here," he grinned. Unfortunately, so did several other pros. They fished plastic worms and spinner baits around the pads throughout the tournament. But the fish were so worked over that no one won the Class A bass.

Martin used a jig with a Gudo Bug plastic trailer, casting and pitching to tree tops in the water. The accuracy of his lure placement in these thick areas is uncanny as Martin's topwater lure work.

Since it was a practice day and the press releases were written to catch a fish — with the largest taking a $500 prize for the writer and for his pro fishing companion, Hibben kept the action going. "Cast, just throw the end of that log," and "Throw right there," were common commands from the front of the boat. And I'd get close

But the Warriors frustrated Vianney's best player, junior forward Darren McDonough.

"It was a great defensive effort by McCook," Jerry Hibben said. Baker said, "We had Jerry on McDonough and I don't think he had a shot all night. The two Jettis, Rodis and St. John, played excellent games as well. We had a couple of injured players, Pat Rich and Danny Weathers, who got in a little playing time and they did well."

"It was certainly a representative score of the way the game went," said Villa. "We had a little better in the second half, but I knew our inexperience would hurt against Granite City."

"Things are looking better for Vianney before they get better. They are competing in the rugged CBC Tournament this week."

"They will make it," said Baker. "They're never down for long."

"Granite City was just great," said Villa. "They look like state championship material again."

about 25 percent of the time. That bothers me.

So I practice my shooting. The practice yields several benefits. First, it improves my skill. Second, it helps me to judge distances and to learn the limitations of my firearms and abilities (or skills) so I don't make mistakes in the field.

And, third, the practice boosts my confidence as the skill improves. Confidence helps me not to get too excited or to control the excitement as I take or pass on a goose comes into proper shooting range.

Knowing how and what to do in the outdoors is important. Being able to do it is critical. And, skill practice. If your past frustrations haven't already taught you that, learn from the pros like Roland Martin and Guy Dettienne.

Now, they know. They wouldn't think about fishing a tournament without practicing.

Should we do any less?

Thompson, a midfielder from Granite City; Mike Stern, a back from Althoff; and John Rains of Granite City.

"Thompson was more of a role player from Granite City," Petri said. "He had a good form, but he's a little on the heavy side. He needs to cut some weight."

"The other guys could be starters. But the freshmen are really going to push them."

Area fans can also follow the fortunes of Alton Marquette All-American Craig Henrich, who has had the tickle of duties for the Irish and is vying for the punting and placekicking jobs as a freshman. Henrich kicked two extra points and a field goal in Notre Dame's 36-13 win over Virginia in the Kick-off Classic in East Rutherford, N.J.

The Dutchmen open the season at 3 p.m. today at Lewis & Clark. BAC is in one tournament (Sept. 22-23 at Johnson County) and has two games against St. Louis' Meramec, Forest Park and Florissant Valley.

"We use our schedule as a recruiting tool," Petri said. "The three St. Louis area schools and Lewiston are annually among the top 15 teams in the nation."

Thompson leading Europe trade tour

Gov. James R. Thompson will lead a delegation of nearly 50 business, labor and government leaders on a two-week business and tourism development mission to Italy, France, Austria and Spain in September.

The tour is aimed at refining Illinois' trade strategies as Europe prepares for economic unification in 1992.

"As Europe moves toward 1992, some changes are taking place," Thompson said.

"Free movement of people, goods, services and capital; as well as the development of common product standards" has led to some fears on the part of U.S. businesses, concerned about the effect of this unification on their trade. The delegation will allow Illinois to clarify its role as a trade partner — a move that will help us alleviate any fears brought on by the economic unification in Europe.

Jay R. Hedges, director of the Department of Commerce and Economic Affairs (DCEA), said the mission will also continue efforts, launched last April in Paris, to attract European travelers to the Illinois.

Thompson and the delegation will leave Chicago on Sept. 11, arriving in Milan, Italy, on Sept. 12. While in Italy, the governor will be a speaker at the opening session of the March Polo Convention of World Trading Companies.

The governor will also meet with Renato Ruggiero, Italy's minister of industry, Guido Inglese, president of the Italian Trade Commission; and Petro Bassetti, president of the Milan Chamber of Commerce.

The delegation will leave Italy Sept. 15 for Paris, where the governor will meet with U.S.

Ambassador J.P. Curley and Francois Scheer, secretary general of the Ministry of Foreign Affairs, will highlight the Paris stay will be the Chicago Symphony Orchestra's concert that

'This trade mission will allow Illinois to clarify its role as a trade partner'

evening, when French business people will be guests of the state.

Thompson and the delegation will arrive Sept. 17 in Vienna, Austria, where the governor has scheduled meetings with Federal Chancellor Franz Vranitzky as well as discussions with the Constitutional, Austrian and individual business people. Thompson will also address the Federal Chamber of Commerce and American Chamber of Commerce in Austria.

The delegation will depart Vienna on Sept. 18, arriving in Barcelona, Spain, for meetings with Jordi Pujol, president of the Region of Catalonia, and American Chamber of Commerce members.

On Sept. 21, Thompson and his party will arrive in Madrid for meetings with Spanish business leaders, bankers, and the ministers of Industry, Agriculture, and Economy and Finance.

The delegation will arrive in Spain on Sept. 22, with a highlight of the visit will be a tour of the 1992 World's Fair site.

Thompson and the delegation will return to Chicago on Sept. 26.

Settlement nets state $20 million

Attorney General Neil F. Hartigan has announced that Illinois will receive $4.6 million as the first of several installments totaling about $20 million from settlement of an oil overcharge case against Texaco.

This brings the total to $770 million that Hartigan has returned to the state treasury since taking office in 1983 in his continued effort to make his office a profit center.

"This is good news for all Illinois citizens because this money will fund energy-saving programs for low-income families, including renters and homeowners, and schools. It will also help other Illinois residents to stretch their energy dollars," Hartigan said.

The receipt of $4,684,991 is the result of a settlement achieved last year between Hartigan, other states' attorneys general, Texaco and the U.S. Department of Energy, with funds being dis-

"Old" oil was from fields that exhausted their reserves before 1973, while "new" oil included fields that were discovered or went into production after 1973.

Since damages to individuals cannot be determined, an earlier settlement specifies that state energy programs benefiting the general public should be funded with the proceeds.

Lighten Up The Low-Fat Way

Cholesterol Can Be Cut From Menu

By Lynn Venhaus
Journal Staff Writer

Saturated fat has become the enemy. Wise diners no longer means just cutting calories—cutting cholesterol is now the prudent path.

"Cholesterol" articles are headlined on magazine covers, informed on television and now appear in most food sections. It has become a very serious subject. So how do we lighten up the low-fat way?

Learning that simple small steps can make a big fat difference is the key. You still can enjoy mealtime by making some easy switches within your diet.

The National Cholesterol Education Program and the American Heart Association have proposed guidelines that say total fat should be no more than 30 percent of total calories and saturated fat should be less than 10 percent of total calories.

For instance, substituting a vegetable or canola cooking oil for butter, margarine or shortening made with meat fat is simple enough. So is eating low-fat yogurt, ice milk or low-fat instead of ice cream. Or grilling meats instead of frying. Stir-frying or microwaving veggies without butter and cream sauces will retain the all-important flavor because the vegetables look so colorful.

Today's menu makeover takes traditional dinner and creates low-fat substitutions for a healthy yet tasty dinner. With these recipes, the cholesterol-conscious cook can prepare light, delectable replacements for fried chicken, honey-roasted nuts, green beans amandine, rice pilaf, mixed green salad with blue cheese dressing.

Tart Pastry

1 1/4 cups all-purpose flour
2 tbsp. sugar
1/2 tsp. salt
1/2 tsp. ground cinnamon
1/4 tsp. ground nutmeg
1/4 cup vegetable or canola oil
2 to 3 tbsp. water

Combine flour, sugar, salt, cinnamon and nutmeg in large bowl. Add oil and stir with fork. Add water, 1/2 cup at a time, stirring. Stir in water, one tablespoon at a time, until dough comes together. Using fingertips, press dough into bottom and up sides of 9-inch tart pan with removable bottom. 9 1/2-inch springform pan or pie shell. Refrigerate. Makes one 9-inch tart or pie shell.

Easy Switches

High-Saturated-Fat Foods

Heavily marbled or fatty meats, sausages, bacon

Vegetables cooked in butter or cream sauce

Creamy soups

Bottled salad dressings

Snack crackers and chips made with saturated fat

Ice cream

Rich desserts

Smart Substitutions

Lean cuts of beef (rump, round, flank steak, London broil), lamb, pork loin or tenderloin, poultry with all skin removed and fish

Steamed or stir-fried vegetables

Bouillon, defatted broth, soup with the fat skimmed off

All-vegetable or vegetable canola oil and vinegar; add spices to taste

Popcorn air-popped or popped in all-vegetable oil, bread sticks, low-fat crackers or flat-bread crackers

Frozen yogurt, ice milk, sorbet

Angel food cake or cakes and pastries made with vegetable oil; fruit

Pear-Raisin Tart

3 to 4 firm, large Bosc pears or Granny Smith apples, peeled, cored, thinly sliced (1/8-inch thick slices)
3 tbsp. orange juice
1 tsp. grated orange peel
1/4 cup sugar
1/2 tsp. ground cinnamon
1/4 tsp. ground nutmeg
1/2 cup apricot preserves or jam
2 tbsp. raisins or currants

Heat oven to 425°. Make tart pastry (recipe above). In large bowl, toss pear slices with juice and grated orange peel. Add sugar, cinnamon and nutmeg over pear slices in bowl; combine. Arrange pear slices in a circular pattern, slightly overlapping, in pastry shell. Bake at 425° for 15 minutes. Lower heat to 350° and bake for 30 to 35 minutes or until fruit is tender. Cool slightly. Serve warm or cold.

Mesmerize, strain preserves through sieve into small, heavy saucepan. Add raisins and heat over low heat, stirring frequently, until bubbly and foamy. Brush glaze evenly over surface of tart. Serve tart slightly warm. Makes 10 to 12 servings.

Spiced Garbanzo Beans

1 tbsp. vegetable or canola oil
1 can (15-oz.) garbanzo beans (chick-peas), rinsed, drained, patted dry (about 2 cups)
1/4 tsp. chili powder or cayenne pepper

Heat oil in non-stick skillet over medium heat. Add garbanzo beans; sprinkle with chili powder or cayenne pepper and cook, stirring constantly, until golden brown, 10 to 12 minutes. Transfer to bowl and serve hot. Store in refrigerator as a finger food, or use as a topping for salads. Makes eight 1/4-cup servings.

Mixed Green Salad With Vinaigrette And Parmesan

8 cups mixed greens, such as Boston lettuce, Romaine, spinach, arugula, radicchio and watercress
2 tbsp. vegetable or canola oil
2 tbsp. white-wine vinegar
1/2 tsp. dijon-style mustard
1 clove garlic, minced
1/2 tsp. each salt and freshly ground pepper
Freshly grated or shaved Parmesan cheese

Rinse greens thoroughly under cool water, let drain and pat dry. Tear into bite-size pieces and combine in large salad bowl.

Combine oil, vinegar, mustard, salt and pepper in small bowl, or shake ingredients vigorously in tightly covered jar. Drizzle dressing over greens in salad bowl, tossing to coat.

Using a grater or vegetable peeler, grate cheese or shave thin strips of cheese over salad.

Makes 8 servings.

Sesame Green Beans

1 tsp. sesame seeds
1/2 lb. fresh green beans, trimmed, cut in half diagonally

Toast sesame seeds in large skillet over medium heat, shaking pan frequently, until lightly browned, about 5 to 7 minutes. Transfer to small bowl.

In a cover steamer or strainer, set over boiling water, steam green beans for 15 to 20 minutes or until tender-crisp. Transfer to serving bowl and sprinkle with toasted sesame seeds; serve immediately. Makes 4 servings.

ing, and apple pie.

The traditional menu can add up to 1,420 calories with a 57 percent fat ratio and 22 percent saturated fat ratio. Its streamlined counterpart can cut calories to 380, with 14 percent fat and 4 percent saturated fat.

The following menu offers Lemon Basil Grilled Chicken as the main dish. Using herbs and spices in imaginative ways helps pack up otherwise plain food that some would perceive as boring.

Jazzing up side dishes is fun—substituting some soups or salads with different tastes, adding and adding colorful veggies to rice creates a special primavera-style instead of plain old pilaf.

You can have your cake and eat it, too, as long as it's angel food or one made with vegetable oil instead of butter. For a really special touch, serve the elegant, open-faced fruit tart featured here.

And to start off the meal, instead of nibbling on oily-roasted nuts, try a seasoned version of crunchy garbanzo beans (also known as chick-peas).

So why are we so scared of saturated fat? In humans, saturated fat appears to be the biggest elevator of blood cholesterol levels. You can streamline your menu to eat a better way. Sounds like a good idea.

For gurus of good taste, the following meal will demonstrate that taste doesn't have to be sacrificed along with the fat.

Brown Rice Primavera

1/2 cup brown or long-grain rice
1/2 tsp. salt (optional)
2 tsp. vegetable or canola oil
1 carrot, peeled, diced (about 1/2 cup)
1 small zucchini, diced (about 1/2 cup)
1 small yellow squash, diced (about 1/2 cup)
1 small red bell pepper, seeded, diced (about 1/2 cup)
2 green onions, thinly sliced (about 1/4 cup)

Bring 1 1/4 cups water to a boil in medium-size saucepan over medium heat. Add rice and salt (if using) and reduce heat to low and simmer until all water is absorbed and rice is tender, about 40 to 45 minutes.

Meanwhile, heat oil in large non-stick skillet over medium-high heat. Add vegetables and cook, stirring frequently, until vegetables are tender, about 5 to 7 minutes.

Transfer rice to serving bowl. Add vegetables and toss to combine; serve immediately. Makes 4 servings.

Lemon Basil Grilled Chicken

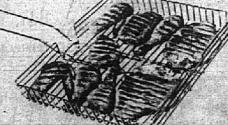

1/2 cup vegetable or canola oil
1/2 cup lemon juice
2 tbsp. white-wine vinegar
1 tsp. grated lemon peel
2 cloves garlic
1/2 tsp. each salt and pepper
1/2 cup fresh basil leaves
1/2 cup chopped fresh basil or 1 tbsp. dried basil
4 boneless, skinless chicken breasts (about 1 1/2 lbs.)

In small bowl, combine oil, lemon juice, vinegar, grated lemon peel, garlic, salt, pepper and basil. (Makes about 1 cup marinade.)

Place chicken in shallow baking dish and cover with marinade. Marinate chicken, turning once, for 30 to 45 minutes or overnight. Refrigerate until ready to cook.

Meanwhile, prepare charcoal for grilling or heat broiler. Grill or broil chicken 4 inches from heat source, turning once, until lightly browned. Transfer to serving dish. Garnish with lemon slices and fresh basil leaves. Makes 4 servings.

Note: You can substitute orange juice and grated orange peel for the lemon.

For those going, going, gone: these grape recipes for you

Baseball, football, soccer and every other sport on earth seem to overlap in September. Include refreshing Grape Tarts in game-time play.

These tarts are a portable, any-time treat that can be toted to stadium grounds or fall barbecues and potlucks.

The great wonder of a concession stand unnecessary as grape tarts are a welcome dessert with a stadium snack of hot drinks, soup, cheese and crackers.

Or, for an impromptu victory party after the game, just pull together a tray of tarts. Serve them alongside a bowl of plain or orange-flavored yogurt for guests craving an additional bit of flavoring.

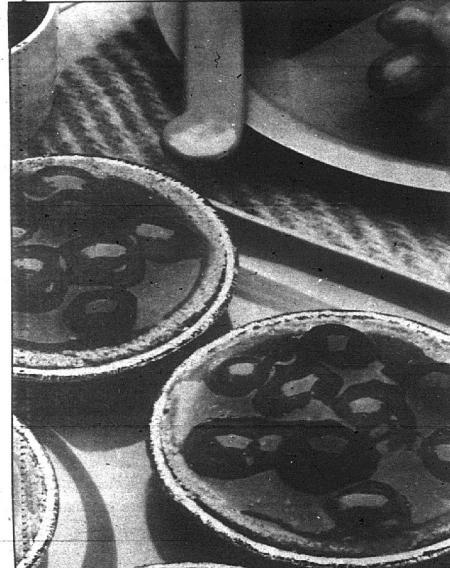

TABLE GRAPES: are a perfect topping for an easy tart made with lemony goodness.

Another winning-style use for grapes is in salad. Grape and Beef Salad goes together in a rush and makes a filling lunch salad.

The grapes included in either recipe depend on preferences. With 12 varieties available, there's always a bowl of red or orange-flavored yogurt for guests craving an additional bit of flavoring.

Microwave Grape Tarts

1 pkg. (4 serving) lemon or orange gelatin
1/4 cup sugar
1/4 cup cornstarch
1 1/2 cups water
3 cups grapes, halved if desired, seeded if necessary
12 (3 inch) prepared tart shells

Combine gelatin, sugar and cornstarch in a medium-size 4-cup measure. Stir in water. Cook at high power 4 to 5 minutes until mixture boils and thickens, stirring after 3 minutes. Cool.

Sir in grapes. Spoon into tart shells.

Pasta adds crunch

Grown-ups and kids love pasta. Warm strands of noodles, cooked just until tender, and topped with a herb-and-garlic sauce, literally melt in one's mouth.

Everyone is Italian when it comes to enjoying this popular dish.

Pasta can be served as a separate course before an entree, as a side dish with an entrée, or as the main dish itself. When the pasta dish is loaded with nutrients, only a tossed green salad is needed to compliment the meal.

Linguine Florentine provides carbohydrates from the pasta and protein from the chicken and almonds. Anyone who never considered almonds for pasta dishes will be pleased at how well they match all varieties of pasta.

Pasta main dishes are usually quick to fix, a boon to a busy cook.

Linguine Florentine

1/2 cup blanched slivered almonds
1/2 cup chopped onions
1 clove garlic, minced
1/4 cup olive oil
1/2 tsp. flour
1/2 tsp. thyme
1/2 cups low-fat milk

1/4 cup dry sherry
3 oz. boneless, skinless chicken breast, cooked, shredded
1/2 cup chopped parsley
1/2 lb. linguine, cooked
1 cup spinach leaves

Soak almonds in single layer on baking sheet. Bake at 350° for 9 to 11 minutes, stirring occasionally, until golden brown. Cool.

Cook linguine until slightly firm, according to package directions.

In medium saucepan, sauté onions and garlic in oil until onions are soft. Add flour and thyme. Cook over low heat until flour is bubbly.

Gradually whisk in milk and sherry. Cook over medium heat, stirring frequently, until mixture boils and thickens.

Whisk in mustard. Fold in chicken, parsley and toasted slivered almonds.

Toss hot linguine with sauce. Season with fresh spinach leaves. Garnish with additional chopped parsley and toasted slivered almonds.

Makes 6 servings, 378 calories, 26 gm. protein, 21 gm. fat, 30 mg. cholesterol, 5 gm. dietary fiber, 214 mg. sodium each.

Breakfast skipped; memories remain

Wake up, all reluctant nine-to-fivers. Many who fit this category have forgotten that there is a meal—the first of the three squares—that comes before noon.

Its intention is to calm the pangs from an overnight fast and fortify body and mind for the day's activities.

A desire to embrace the morning with a leisurely breakfast and a newspaper may be gone, today's response for many Americans is to skip the meal altogether.

Only about half the American adults eat breakfast daily. Another 19 percent sometimes eat breakfast, according to a survey from the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services.

Those who are younger and better educated are less likely to eat breakfast.

A mere 88 percent of the fast-paced crowd between 20 and 34 years of age eat breakfast regularly.

Running on empty until lunch may have health implications. According to the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services, eating is among seven habits "associated with subsequent favorable health status and reduced mortality."

The question that remains, however, is practical. How, in the morning scramble for work, school and other activities, does one have time for breakfast?

For some, the solution is a drive through a fast food establishment—often expensive in terms of calories, fat and sodium.

As a breakfast alternative, here is a variety of easy, dine-in or carry-out breakfast ideas. Because they are, in most cases, one of the best and most convenient sources of protein, calcium, riboflavin, phosphorus, magnesium and vitamin B, these recipes are a step in the right direction toward meeting daily requirements.

The first suggestion is to doctor up a carton of plain yogurt. Try these additions for starters:

- chopped or mashed fruit—apricots, berries, banana, dried fruit, kiwi, grapes, melon, oranges, peaches, pears, pineapple, plums or raisins;
- sweetened bran cereals;
- canned nuts;
- granola;
- jams or jellies;
- toasted coconut or honey wheat germ.

The healthy meal can be enlivened even more with these imaginative recipes. Both recipes adapt well to a make-ahead strategy.

Make Mixed Berry Powerhouse the night before by combining all ingredients except the honey in a blender and gently ice cube in a blender container. Refrigerate until the next morning, when the mixture can be whirled in a blender for a quick breakfast.

Lemony Breakfast Cheese Spread, based on ricotta cheese, makes for several breakfasts and still has time left for the full work week. Experiment with smoothing this tangy, sweet spread onto rice cakes, English muffins and raisin bread.

Lemony Breakfast Cheese Spread

- 1 cup part-skim ricotta cheese
- 1/4 cup sugar
- 3/4 cup lemon low-fat yogurt
- 2 tbsps. lemon juice

Beat ricotta cheese and sugar in a small mixer bowl until smooth, about 5 minutes. Stir in yogurt and vanilla. Refrigerate, covered, 1 to 2 hours to allow flavors to blend.

Spread 1 to 2 tablespoons cheese spread on warm assorted toasted breads or rice cakes. Top with fresh or dried fruit or a few cool棋子.

Store spread, covered, in refrigerator up to 5 days.

Makes 3 cups; 21 calories, 1 gm. protein, 3 gm. fat, 2 gm. carbohydrate per 1 tablespoon.

Mixed Berry Powerhouse

- 2 containers (8 oz. each) mixed berry yogurt
- 1/2 cup cold skim milk
- 1/2 cup honey crumb wheat germ
- 1/2 cup frozen cranberry juice concentrate, defrosted
- 2 tbsps. honey
- 2 ice cubes

Place yogurt, milk, wheat germ juice concentrate, honey and ice cubes in a blender container. Blend until smooth and frothy. Serve in tall chilled glasses.

To prepare the night before, combine all ingredients except wheat germ and ice cubes in a blender container. Cover. Refrigerate. Add wheat germ and ice just before blending the next morning.

Makes 3 cups; 275 calories, 10 gm. protein, 3 gm. fat, 55 gm. carbohydrate per 1 cup.

Vegetable Kabobs

- 1 medium zucchini (about 1 1/2 lbs.), cut in 1/4 inch slices
- 2 green bell peppers, cut in 1/4 inch pieces
- 16 cherry tomatoes
- 16 whole mushrooms
- 1/4 cup Italian dressing
- 1 tsp. garlic salt

Alternate zucchini, peppers, tomatoes and mushrooms on each of six skewers. Thread on between vegetables. Mix dressing and garlic salt. Brush on vegetables. Place kabobs 5 to 6 inches from medium coals. Cover. Grill 10 to 15 minutes, turning and brushing 2 or 3 times with dressing mixture, until vegetables are crisp-tender. Makes 6 servings.

Yogurt Dip For Vegetables

- 1 cup plain yogurt
- 1/4 cup horseradish, drained
- 1/4 cup mayonnaise
- 1/4 cup finely sour cream
- 1/4 cup honey
- Salt and pepper to taste
- 2 tbsps. white wine vinegar
- 1/2 cup chopped chives
- 2 tbsps. dried basil, crushed
- 2 cloves garlic, peeled, crushed (optional)

Combine yogurt, horseradish, sour cream, honey, salt, pepper, vinegar, chives, basil and cloves. Stir well and blend.

Refrigerate overnight for flavors to meld. Serve with fresh raw vegetables.

Pesto Dip

- 2 cups cottage cheese
- 1/2 cup freshly grated parmesan cheese
- 1/4 cup fresh basil, washed, drained
- 1/4 cup chopped parsley
- 1/4 cup basil
- 1/4 cup lemon juice
- 1/4 cup oil
- 1/4 cup pepper
- 1/2 cup chopped garlic
- Sliced assorted fresh vegetables

Combine cottage cheese, parmesan, spinach, basil, oil, pepper and garlic in food processor or blender. Process until smooth. Refrigerate, covered, at least 2 hours. Yield about 4 cups.

Variation: Omit spinach, increasing basil to 2 tablespoons.

Sausage Indian Style

- 4 tbsps. oil
- 2 medium onions, sliced
- 1 small zucchini, sliced
- 1/2 cup green bell pepper
- 1/2 cup onion, sliced
- 1/2 cup fresh ginger
- 2 cups spaghetti sauce, any variety
- Hot cooked rice

In 10-inch skillet over medium heat, in 3 tablespoons hot oil cook onions and zucchini until tender. Remove vegetables from skillet.

In same skillet over medium heat, remaining 1 tablespoon hot oil, cook sausage until browned, about 10 minutes. Spoon off fat.

Add ginger, spaghetti sauce and vegetable mixture. Cover. Simmer 5 minutes.

Serve sausage and vegetables over hot cooked rice.

Makes 4 cups or 4 servings.

Glazed Apricot Pork Kabobs

- 1 lb. boneless pork loin, cut in 1/4 inch cubes
- 1/2 cup apricot preserves
- 1/4 cup orange liqueur or orange juice
- 4 tbsps. butter

Stir together apricot preserves, orange liqueur and butter. Simmer in small saucepan until butter is melted. Or combine ingredients in 2-quart casserole and microwave on high 1 minute.

Place pork cubes in heavy plastic bag. Pour 3/4 cup apricot mixture over meat to coat. Marinate over night.

Thread pork cubes on 6 skewers; if using bamboo, soak skewers in water 20 to 30 minutes before using. Grill over hot coals 10 to 12 minutes, turning once, basting often with marinade.

Warm remaining apricot sauce. Serve alongside kabobs.

Makes 4 servings, 309 calories each.

No-Cook Barbecue Sauce

- 1 cup mayonnaise
- 1 (6 oz.) can tomato paste
- 3 tbsps. Worcestershire sauce
- 1 tsp. horseradish
- 1/2 cup vinegar
- 1 tsp. salt
- 1/2 tsp. sugar
- 1/2 tsp. black pepper
- 1/2 tsp. cayenne pepper
- 1/2 to 1/4 tsp. pepper sauce

Place yogurt, milk, wheat germ juice concentrate, honey and ice cubes in a blender container. Blend until smooth and frothy. Serve in tall chilled glasses.

To prepare the night before, combine all ingredients except wheat germ and ice cubes in a blender container. Cover. Refrigerate. Add wheat germ and ice just before blending the next morning.

Makes 3 cups; 275 calories, 10 gm. protein, 3 gm. fat, 55 gm. carbohydrate per 1 cup.

Plentiful onion and tomato to go steady through winter

With fresh—very fresh—tomatoes and onions available at local markets, now is the time to prepare and freeze an Onion-Tomato Sauce for year-round use. Chopped onions and tomatoes simmer with red wine, garlic, green pepper and herbs. This and savory from long slow cooking. Onion-Tomato Freezer Sauce inspires many delicious and easy dishes.

Quick Vegetable Soup combines the three simple basic beef broth, vegetables and macaroni for a hearty homestyle soup.

Onion-Tomato Freezer Sauce

3 large, sweet onions, chopped
3 cloves garlic, minced
½ cup olive oil
5 lbs. tomatoes, peeled, quartered

½ cup chopped parsley
1 green bell pepper, seeded, chopped
1 lbs. carrots
2 cups paprika
1½ tsp. salt
1½ tsp. pepper
1 cup dry red wine
½ cup water

Sauté onions and garlic in oil until tender but not brown. Add tomatoes, parsley, green pepper, onions, paprika, salt, pepper, wine and water. Simmer until thick, 1½ to 2 hours.

Cool. Pour into freezer containers, leaving ¼-inch head space. Cover and freeze.

Makes about 5 pints sauce.

Quick Vegetable Soup
2 cups Onion-Tomato Freezer
Sauce
2 cans (10 oz. each) beef broth
1 soup can water
1 cup elbow macaroni
1 cup chopped celery
Salt and pepper
½ cup macaroni, uncooked

In large saucepan, combine Onion-Tomato Freezer Sauce, beef broth and water. Heat to boiling.

Add carrots, celery, salt and pepper. Simmer, covered, 15 minutes.

Add macaroni. Simmer, covered, 10 minutes longer. Correct seasoning.

Makes 4 to 6 servings.

Mediterranean Baked Fish

2 cups Onion Tomato Freezer
Sauce, heated
1½ to 2 lbs. fish steaks or filets
Salt and pepper
¼ cup grated Parmesan cheese

Place 1 cup Onion-Tomato Freezer Sauce in bottom of shallow baking dish. Sprinkle fish with salt and pepper. Pour remaining sauce over fish. Sprinkle with Parmesan cheese.

Bake at 350° for 25 minutes or until fish flakes when tested with fork.

Makes 6 servings.

Break the barbecue routine with easy-cooking tenderloin steak

When barbecue seems boring and darkness seems to envelop the patio, it's time to turn to the kitchen for quick, low-calorie recipe ideas that can be used for everyday meal planning and entertaining.

Today's fast-paced, high-conscious lifestyle requires an accounting of convenience and calories.

Meat often is the first choice in meal planning, but for convenience's sake select meat cuts that are simple to prepare and low in calories.

Beef tenderloin steaks are a good choice because they cook quickly and have only 174 calories per three-ounce serving.

These steaks, cut from the meaty tenderloin, are one of the most popular cuts available, making them a perfect selection for entertaining.

Tenderloin Steaks with Mushrooms uses tenderloin steak 1-inch thick, so it contains just 195 calories per serving. The steaks first are panbroiled in a lightly oiled nonstick frying pan.

Panbroiling is an excellent way to keep calories to a minimum because little or no fat is added and drippings are poured off as they accumulate.

Next, cook the mushrooms, using either shiitake or button mushrooms caps, if desired, and chop them.

Add beef broth, brandy and Worcestershire sauce to the mushrooms for a delectable sauce to spoon over the steaks. Serve with tenderloin steaks with Stir-Fried Noodles and Vegetables. This colorful side dish adds only 66 calories to the meal and also is quick to fix.

Tenderloin Steaks with Mushrooms uses tenderloin steak 1-inch thick, so it contains just thick (about 4 oz. each)

Olive Oil
Stir-Fried Noodles and Vegetables
1 cup sliced fresh shiitake or button mushroom caps, cut in 1/8 inch slices
2 lbs. sliced shallots
1/2 cup beef broth
2 tbsp. brandy
1 tsp. Worcestershire sauce

Heat nonstick frying pan over medium-high heat until hot. Brush pan lightly with oil. Pan-broil beef 6 to 8 minutes, turning once.

Meanwhile, prepare Stir-Fried Noodles and Vegetables. Remove steaks to platter. Keep warm.

Reduce heat to medium. Brush pan lightly with oil. Cook mushrooms and shallots 1 to 2 minutes, stirring constantly.

Add beef, brandy and Worcestershire sauce. Continue cooking 1 to 2 minutes until liquid is slightly reduced.

Spoon mushrooms and sauce over steaks.

1 serving: 195 calories, 25 gm. protein, 9 gm. fat, 2 gm. carbohydrate, 120 mg. sodium and 71 mg. cholesterol each.

Stir-Fried Noodles And Vegetables

2 tsp. vegetable oil
1 clove garlic, minced
1 dried red pepper
1/2 cup sliced carrots
1/2 cup bell pepper, cut in thin strips
4 lb. fresh pea pods
1 cup cooked vermicelli pasta

Heat wok or heavy frying pan over medium-high heat until hot. Stir-fry oil, garlic, dried red pepper, carrots and red bell pepper 3 minutes.

Add pea pods. Continue to stir-fry 3 minutes. Add vermicelli. Cook until hot. Discard dried red pepper.

VEGETABLES: grilled next to a steak win as a natural match.

Beef steak: robust liking for vegetables

Don't close the lid on warm-weather grilling yet. It is an easy and delicious way to cook meat and other favorites, too, to make time for enjoying the outdoors, not the weather.

Grilling offers an opportunity to experiment with both cuts of meat and other types of cookery. Take beef round steaks, for example. To ensure maximum tenderness, these lean steaks benefit from marinating at least six to eight hours before grilling. Marinades with light and fresh flavors, such as citrus and herbs, are a perfect match for them.

To make the most of the grill and to make it even easier on the cook, grill vegetables alongside the steaks. Fresh summer squash and zucchini are great companions for steaks. Squash and most other vegetables need only to be cleaned and brushed lightly with oil before grilling.

To complete the meal, team Lemon-Basil Steaks with Grilled Squash with a pasta salad and refreshing fruit sherbet for dessert.

Lemon-Basil Steaks With Grilled Squash
1 beef round steak, cut 3 to 1 inch thick (7 to 8 oz.)

2 tbsp. fresh lemon juice
2 tbsp. water
1/2 cup finely chopped fresh or dried basil leaves, crushed
1/2 tsp. oil
1/2 tsp. grated lemon peel
Pinch coarsely ground black pepper
2 yellow or zucchini squash, cut in half lengthwise
Oil

Combine lemon juice, water, basil, oil, lemon peel and pepper, stirring until well blended.

Place steaks in plastic bag. Add marinade and shake well. Close bag securely. Marinate in refrigerator for 6 hours or overnight, if desired, turning occasionally. Remove steaks from marinade.

Place steaks on grid over medium coals. Grill 12 to 16 minutes for rare (140°) to medium (160°). Brush with marinade and turn steaks. Grill 2 to 3 minutes longer, basting frequently with oil. Place on grid over medium coals. Grill until tender, 8 to 12 minutes, turning occasionally.

Makes 2 servings.

Note: Beef round steak and squash may be cooked in covered cookers. Grill 10 to 14 minutes for rare to medium steaks. Turn steaks and squash once.

Try a soldier or butterfly in ice cream

Ice cream novelties have appealed to Americans. The original ice cream bar was the perfect marriage of ice cream and chocolate.

Ice cream novelties can be made for individual fun at home.

With a supply of vanilla ice cream, some flat-bottom cones and candy and candy decorations, an ice cream cone turns into a helmeted soldier or drum major for a circus party. A scoop of ice cream in a cone can be decorated with candy butterfly wings or trimmed with gumdrop flowers.

Set the imagination free and see what other ice cream novelties can be created. Plan and prepare decorations before scooping the ice cream, because it will need attention quickly.

Another way to pep up a dish of ice cream is to add a crunchy topping. This easy one combines wheat germ, dried fruit, chocolate chips and spices for storing in the refrigerator. It can be used on a dessert's notice when ice cream hunger strikes.

candy for ears.

Soldier: Cut a chocolate wafer cookie (or brown edge wafer, striped shortbread, etc.) in half. Arrange as wings on ice cream. Cut a small cube of each half into ice cream at 45 degree angle. Use red cinnamon candies or other small candies for eyes and pieces of candy shoestring for antennae. Cookies may be decorated with tube of prepared frosting piped through tip with small hole.

Everyday Crunch Topping

1/2 cup honey 1/2 cup wheat germ
1/2 cup diced dried mixed fruit
1/2 cup raisins

1/2 cup diced banana chips
1/2 cup chopped nuts
1/2 cup flaked coconut
2 tbsp. miniature semisweet chocolate pieces
1/2 tsp. cinnamon
Pinch ginger

Combine wheat germ and any or all of the other ingredients. Makes about 1/2 cup.

Carolina gold

By Judith Glynn
Whether passing through or going to North Carolina, take along an easel satchel of up-to-date swatches, wallpaper clippings, paint chips, room dimensions and, if possible, photos of existing furniture you'd like to keep in the rooms of your home.

As you drive along North Carolina's highways and pass through small towns, the furniture stores advertising savings from 30 to 50 percent off top name brands, you'll be prepared to make stops along the way. The 100,000 teens this year will witness the great sights of Western civilization from London to Athens, returning home with memories of April in Paris or perhaps the Pope's Easter Sunday blessing at the Vatican.

Business is booming for North Carolina's furniture retailers, especially those mavericks that have slashed suggested retail prices to the bone.

Many of the retailers are flirting with being tattered and feathered in their own back yards by the big manufacturers. They will be the tickering genes on the consumer winds.

In fact, Hubie Tolson, owner of the 103-year-old Turner-Tolson store (2000 Main Street, Eastbound and Colonial) in New Bern, goes one step further to entice out-of-staters to shop at his store, especially those spending $4,000 or more.

He'll pick up customers at the airport, pay for one night at a local Colonial-style, room-breakfast accommodation, arrange for breakfast in bed, drive customers to his store and assign personal interior designers to help with choices.

For restless husbands, Tolson treats them to a day at the golf course and lunch.

Practical items are approximately $300 to $500 for a standard wingback chair and $600 for starters for all-down sofas. An all-down sofa, which will be two recliners at either end and overstuffed pillows recently sold for $2,200.

Bring them about 20 yards of Lorraine and Turner-Tolson will custom-make a sofa with down cushions for $699.

There is a large display of antique furniture. Gostin of Liverpool end tables and occasional tables are the latest imports. An entire section is set aside for customized purchases with catalogs and swatches of cloth.

January and February sale months reduce furniture in store by 10 percent and more. Recently, an 18th century reproduction of a Philadelphia highboy by American Drew was sold for $749.

Another specialty retailer is the Furniture House of North Carolina.

Like most North Carolina retailers, Penney sells furniture that is made in his home state. It is solid wood, generally mahogany. Customers tend to be self-employed property-owners or vacation-home purchasers willing to make a substantial investment.

If you can't make it to North Carolina, call the stores and they will send catalogs for shop-at-home service offering the same savings and interior design.

Students plan for Europe

By Randy Mink
Journal Correspondent

When the air turns crisp and leaves change colors, the travel thoughts of many high school students turn to spring.

American teenagers this fall are saving their pennies to sail Europe over next year's Easter vacation. The 100,000 teens this year will witness the great sights of Western civilization from London to Athens, returning home with memories of April in Paris or perhaps the Pope's Easter Sunday blessing at the Vatican.

Teenagers' figure is an estimate by Kevin Morgan, executive vice president of the American Institute for Foreign Study (AIFS), a pioneer in high school travel to Europe.

These learning safaris, whether for a week or the week in one country or breeze through five, expose young people to places and cultures they have only read about or seen on television, Morgan said.

"A week in Europe is tremendously eye-opening for student who never has ventured far from home," Morgan said.

Though students attend no classes, spring-break tours operate within an educational framework. To accommodate most of the week abroad, most teachers hold a series of orientation sessions and supply participants with reading materials to prepare them for the trip.

A whirlwind dash around the continent may be just the tonic a student needs to bolster classroom spirit and make a subject come alive, say foreign language, social studies and English teachers.

While educational travel bureaus may bill the spring journeys as "mini-programs," the tours (some as low as $1,600 in length) are hardly small potatoes to the students saving and planning for one of the biggest adventures of their lives.

Most spring tours cost about $4,000 from St. Louis. Some students finance their journeys with after-school jobs. Parents or grandparents often give part of the cost of the trip as a Christmas present.

While the week-long stints do carry a high per-day cost, they still are within the budget of most students who can't afford a longer summer program. Also, students with summer jobs can't get away.

The appeal of European travel is not restricted to well-to-do communities.

"Even in blue-collar areas with high unemployment, parents want to do something with their kids, structure and manage to come up with the program fee," Morgan said. "They know it's not merely a pleasure junket or a vacation, but an investment in their child's education."

AIFS in 1989 will offer 30 spring itineraries, most of them including London and Paris. Some cities in France and Italy also are big attractions.

Students generally travel by motor coach in groups of 40 and stay in modern hotels. A European tour manager handles the logistics of getting from place to place, while guides conduct tours in each city. The American teachers are responsible for a brood of five to ten students.

Lunches and beverages with meals may not be included in the basic fee. Optional excursions could be another out-of-pocket expense. Air fare, accommodations at least half the program cost.

Check about the location of hotels in major cities. Some organizations use only centrally situated properties while others house groups on the outskirts, far from the tourist action.

In choosing an educational travel program, parents and students should look at the sponsor's track record. It's good to check with others in the community who have traveled with the organization. Some sponsors may offer discount prices, but parents also should consider such criteria as experience, financial security and emergency procedures.

Guidelines on choosing high school trips abroad are listed in a 55-page booklet available free from Youth Exchange, Pueblo, Colo.

For information on 1989 programs, write the American Institute for Foreign Study, 19 Bay State Road, Boston, Mass. 02108; or the American Travel Study Group, Airport Drive, Worcester, Mass. 01602; and Cultural Studies International, 1325 Howe Ave., Sacramento, Calif. 95825.
